Although he's no stranger to the swim community, Sabir Muhammad is a novice writer who knows how to tell a story which just happens to be his own. This inspirational children's picture book tells of a little boy and his fantasy of becoming a great swimmer. A fantasy which becomes a reality larger than he could have ever imagined. Each page features beautiful, vibrant watercolor illustrations from artist Toni Scott Daniel, which bring Sabir and his family to life in a loving way. The relationship between Sabir and his father will encourage all fathers to answer the questions their little boys will ask and to share life lessons that can carry them in the uncertain waters of adulthood. All ages will enjoy this fantastic story about a little boy who was born to swim.
